

Examples of results I have calculated, in a shareable chart manner. These charts are examples of data that will be included in the upcoming publication.

I've calculated rates which essentially determine how effectively reactions will occur, which allows us to determine what forms of reactions should be used to catalyze plastic decomposition as quickly as possible.